

Children of a technological age...

Without a shadow of a doubt technology plays an essential role in our everyday life. We are connected to a vast digital universe. We use technology all the time surfing the net, searching the media, checking our facebook profiles, or playing our favourite games. Do the technological appliances make our daily existence much easier?

We can't imagine our life without smartphones, computers, an Internet access, a TV- set, or other home appliances. Technology facilitates our lives. Thanks to the advances in technology now we are able to do everything faster than we did in the past. With the industrialization, everything becomes quicker. We can work and do the shopping at the same time via Internet. Thus, are we technology victims?

In many cases, we are not. But people who rely on technological devices in every single aspect of their life can be considered as technology victims.

So, what is the future for us- the children of a technological age? Are we in danger? We are not. But under one essential condition – we have to use our brains. In other words, we have to think logically and rationally using our intellectual abilities and intelligence.

And you ?

Do you think you use the newest technology properly? Do you use your brain in a global network rationally?
